1 At several points in time, events and or individuals by an uncanny conspiracy of nature and strength of personality of individuals combine to unleash to the present epoch making happenstances and to the future the value and lessons of events past.

Aristotle, Archimedes, Sarotoga volcano, Atomic bomb, Hiroshima, Napoleon, Hitler, Pol Pot, Chernobyl, Koko, Nzeogwu. You name it. The list though long is not inexhaustible because it is not ordained that every individual or event should make the headlines and waltz his or its way into the memory book of time.

In recent times, the "Gorbachev Revolution" has proved that it will cross the frontier of non-event into the guarded fortress of history.

The epoch-making events in Eastern Europe is breathtaking. To fully understand what is happening we talked to their ambassadors.

2 "I no longer fear death." When a man states this categorically, then it is time for all concerned to change course and do some new thinking. Gani Fawehinmi, fearless as ever, bares his mind on a number of issues. It is not often that one person appears or gets mentioned on the cover of NEW HORIZON twice in a row, but Gani has the distinction of being mentioned thrice.

In March, his interview made to the cover and irked the State Security Service so much that he found himself hurled before the Transition to Civil Rule Tribunal.

He is worth listening to.

3 The struggle of the titans is on. A new minimum wage, NLC says N1,000.00 a month is the price for industrial peace and the FG says mum is the name of the game. Cat and mouse; mother and child.

Who will ring the bell? Eyeball to eyeball, who will blink first? Is N125.00 a month realistic? Somewhere along the line, the answer will emerge.
