EIB STATISTICS FOR 1979-80

As the academic year draws to a close, subscribers may be interested in summary statistics for Volume 9 of the EIB. These figures include job announcements in both the EIB and the Job Register at the annual meeting in December. There were 734 job vacancies announced in 1979-80. 612 were teaching appointments, 18 were in academic administration and 104 were non-teaching positions. 667 (91%) were for full-time employment while 67 were part-time offerings. 157 were temporary appointments (3 years or less).

The 734 jobs represent an increase of 135 openings over the 1978-79 figures. If the number of history doctorates granted continues to decrease, the excess of new PhDs over job vacancies will probably be lower than at any time in the past ten years.
